Roseville College Open Day Saturday 5 April 2008

Roseville College will be celebrating the official opening of the Joy Yeo Performing Arts Centre on Saturday 5 April by holding an Open Day from 12 noon to 4pm. This is another landmark event in Roseville's year-long centenary celebrations.

A lively schedule of performances, displays and activities will showcase the features of the College. Current students will provide guided tours of the facilities which include state-of-the-art science labs, an innovative technology and design centre, dedicated visual and creative arts areas, as well as a swimming pool and multi-purpose outdoor tennis courts.

The Joy Yeo Performing Arts Centre, incorporating a 350 seat auditorium, drama studio, music specialist rooms and state of the art information and communications technology, will be officially opened on Saturday by former Principal, Mrs Joy Yeo (1985-1999). Music and drama rehearsals, workshops and performances will be a feature of Open Day.

A major refurbishment program designed to bring the campus up to date to match the new Joy Yeo Performing Arts Centre, has resulted in a wonderful environment for students to enjoy. Learning areas are complemented by green space, lovely gardens, courtyards and open areas, which the girls all enjoy.

Friends, families, current and prospective parents are invited to come and explore our campus, meet the girls and staff, and see what makes Roseville special.

Dr Briony Scott, Principal of Roseville College, will be making a presentation about educating girls and Roseville College's future directions at 2pm.
